Papier mache

Papier mache has a rich history tracing back to 200 AD during the Han dynasty. In the 15th century, Sultan Zain-ul-Abidin brought it to Kashmir, where it became a popular local craft. It's a mixture of paper pulp, flour and glue, soaked in water and then dried. Finally our artisans paint their stunning designs, a really difficult skill. Recycling waste paper into these beautiful, exotic and colourful products is an amazing transformation which has to be seen to be believed. Today this craft is a source of livelihood for thousands of artisans in India.

Woodland theme!

This popular range combines the traditional skill of papier mache with a traditional style of art often found in India, using the theme of woodland animals like hedgehogs which are so trendy at the moment.

Our in-house designers came up with this concept and we're delighted with the results.

Sentiment pebbles

Made by skilled carvers in Agra, India. Last year we provided £5,000 for them to renew their workshop (new roofs, toilets, damp proofing etc).

Please support them with your orders!

Animal pencil cases

The natural world still faces many threats, and we hope that as we expand the 'Save our Wild World' range we can raise even more awareness of some of the most endangered species around the world.

Alongside the bags and aprons, these purses too have the corresponding label with insight into each animal. The information includes the main threats that the species face and why it is important that we take action to protect them. Our customers have said how much they appreciate these tags as a way of informing customers about these issues.

The screen printed technique is used by a specialist Fair Trade producer group in India. By adding new items to this range, we are providing more work for our producers so buying these beautiful screen printed products promotes Fair Trade and provides a living for artisans in India too!
